ABSTRACT

When the National Forest System was established in 1907, Congress required that 25 percent of revenues derived from National Forests be shared with the counties where they are situated. These proceeds partially refund the tax revenues lost by local governments and help fund rural schools, roads, and other services. In recent years, reduced timber sales have decreased these payments dramatically, seriously impacting educational programs, road maintenance, and other services in the affected counties. This report from the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources presents and recommends passage of S. 1608, which would establish secure payments for states and counties containing federal lands and apply available forest revenues to meet these payments, with general treasury funds making up the difference. Of the payments made, 80-85 percent would go to the traditional schools and roads program; 15-20 percent would be given to the counties for federal-land management projects developed locally. The bill aims to provide secure funding for rural schools while improving cooperative relationships among the people that use and care for federal lands and federal management agencies. This report contains the text of the legislation; its purpose, background, and history; and explanations of each legislative section. A statement by James R. Lyons, Agriculture Under Secretary for Natural Resources and Environment, explains why the Clinton Administration opposed this bill, citing the need to sever completely the link between timber sales and educational funding. ### SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) The National Forest System, which is managed by the United States Forest Service, was established in 1907 and has grown to include approximately 192,000,000 acres of Federal lands.

(2) The public domain lands known as revested Oregon and California Railroad grant lands and the reconveyed Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands, which are managed predominantly by the Bureau of Land Management were returned to Federal ownership in 1916 and 1919 and now comprise approximately 2,600,000 acres of Federal lands.

(3) Congress recognized that, by its decision to secure these lands in Federal ownership, the counties in which these lands are situated would be deprived of revenues they would otherwise receive if the lands were held in private ownership.

(4) These same counties have expended public funds year after year to provide services, such as education, road construction and maintenance, search and rescue, law enforcement, waste removal, and fire protection, that directly benefit these Federal lands and people who use these lands.

(5) To accord a measure of compensation to the affected counties for the critical services they provide to both county residents and visitors to these Federal lands, Congress determined that the Federal Government should share with these counties a portion of the revenues the United States receives from these Federal lands.

(6) Congress enacted in 1908 and subsequently amended a law that requires that 25 percent of the revenues derived from National Forest System lands be paid to States for use by the counties in which the lands are situated for the benefit of public schools and roads.

(7) Congress enacted in 1937 and subsequently amended a law that requires that 75 percent of the revenues derived from the revested and reconveyed grant lands be paid to the counties in which those lands are situated to be used as are other county funds, of which 50 percent is to be used as other county funds.

(8) For several decades primarily due to the growth of the federal timber sale program, counties dependent on and supportive of these Federal lands received and relied on increasing shares of these revenues to provide funding for schools and road maintenance.

(9) In recent years, the principal source of these revenues, Federal timber sales, has been sharply curtailed and, as the volume of timber sold annually from most of the Federal lands has decreased precipitously, so too have the revenues shared with the affected counties.

(10) This decline in shared revenues has affected educational funding and road maintenance for many counties.

(11) In the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, Congress recognized this trend and ameliorated its adverse consequences by providing an alternative annual safety net payment to 72 counties in Oregon, Washington, and northern California in which Federal timber sales had been restricted or prohibited by administrative and judicial decisions to protect the northern spotted owl.

(12) The authority for these particular safety net payments is expiring and no comparable authority has been granted for alternative payments to counties elsewhere in the United States that have suffered similar losses in shared revenues from the Federal lands and in the funding for schools and roads those revenues provide.

(13) There is a need to stabilize education and road maintenance funding through predictable payments to the affected counties, job creation in those counties, and other opportunities associated with restoration, maintenance, and stewardship of federal lands.

(14) Both the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management face significant backlogs in infrastructure maintenance and ecosystem restoration that are difficult to address through annual appropriations.

(15) There is a need to build new, and strengthen existing, relationships and to improve management of public lands and waters.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to stabilize and make permanent payments to counties to provide funding for schools and roads;

(2) to make additional investments in, and create additional employment opportunities through, projects that improve the maintenance of existing infrastructure, implement stewardship objectives that enhance forest ecosystems, and restore and improve land health and water quality. Such projects shall enjoy broad-based support with objectives that may include, but are not limited to:

(A) Road, trail, and infrastructure maintenance or obliteration;

(B) Soil productivity improvement;

(C) Improvements in forest ecosystem health;

(D) Watershed restoration and maintenance;

(E) Restoration, maintenance and improvement of wildlife and fish habitat;

(F) Control of noxious and exotic weeds;

(G) Reestablishment of native species; and

(H) General resource stewardship.

(3) to improve cooperative relationships among the people that use and care for Federal lands and the agencies that manage these lands.

PURPOSE OF THE MEASURE

The purpose of S. 1608 is to provide annual payments for the benefit of public schools and roads to counties that contain National Forest System lands managed by the Forest Service, and for schools, roads and other public purposes for revested Oregon and California Railroad and reconveyed Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands (O&C lands), managed predominantly by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM). S. 1608 also has as its purpose to improve cooperative relationships among the people that use and care for Federal lands and the agencies that manage these lands.

BACKGROUND AND NEED

S. 1608 provides stable payments to states and counties that currently receive revenue-sharing payments from the Forest Service and BLM.

In 1908, 1911, and 1937 Congress enacted laws to share with rural counties a portion of the revenues derived from activities on the national forests and O&C lands situated in those counties. Since passage of those laws, counties dependent on, and supportive of these Federal lands, received increasing levels of these revenues, consisting primarily of timber revenues, to provide funding for schools and road maintenance.

In recent years, however, Federal timber sales have been sharply curtailed and, as the volume of timber sold annually from most of the Federal lands has decreased precipitously, so too have the revenues shared with the affected counties. Consequently, the decline in shared revenues has seriously impacted educational programs, road maintenance for counties containing national forests, and general county services for counties containing O&C lands. Over 700 counties in 41 states and Puerto Rico receive these payments. However, the amount of these revenues have also been affected by national and international market factors, domestic interest rates, housing starts, and economic recessions in Europe and Japan.

Today, both the Forest Service and the BLM face significant backlogs in infrastructure maintenance and ecosystem restoration that are difficult to address through the current levels of annual appropriations. At the same time, there is a pressing need to build new, and strengthen existing, relationships among the various interests active in federal land management programs. The need for stable funding for the counties, and the interest that some counties' expressed in being "connected" to the Federal land, logically led to the need for this bill.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

S. 1608 was introduced on September 21, 1999. The Subcommittee on Forests and Public Land Management held hearings on S. 1608 on October 5 and October 19, 1999. At the business meeting on April 5, 2000, the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources ordered S. 1608 reported favorably with an amendment in the nature of a substitute.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION AND TABULATION OF VOTES

The Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, in open business session on April 5, 2000, by a voice vote of a quorum present recommends that the Senate pass S. 1608 if amended as described herein.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENT

The amendment in the nature of a substitute addresses several concerns raised about S. 1608. The substitute: (1) provides counties the opportunity to remain under the receipts formula in current law; (2) reduces the amount of funding allocated to resource stewardship investments on Federal lands from 25% of the total payment to counties to at least fifteen percent but not more than twenty percent; (3) modifies the structure of local advisory committees so that they more closely resemble the structure of BLM Resource Advisory Committees; (4) requires that special projects on Federal lands improve the maintenance of existing infrastructure, achieve stewardship objectives that enhance forest ecosystems, and restore and improve land health and water quality; (5) directs any revenues generated from these projects and any unused project funds to a national account administered by the Secretaries to fund additional projects recommended by local advisory committees and approved by the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Interior; and (6) directs the land management agencies to conduct pilot projects to sell merchantable material, from special projects, under a separate contract.

COST AND BUDGETARY CONSIDERATIONS

The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimate of the costs of this measure has been requested but was not received at the time the report was filed. The Forest Service estimates the cost to be approximately $1.8 billion over 6 years. When the CBO report is available, the Chairman will request it to be printed in the Congressional Record for the advice of the Senate.

REGULATORY IMPACT EVALUATION

In compliance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee makes the following evaluation of the regulatory impact which would be incurred in carrying out S. 1608.

The bill is not a regulatory measure in the sense of imposing Government-established standards or significant economic responsibilities on private individuals and businesses.

No personal information would be collected in administering the program. Therefore, there would be no impact on personal privacy.

Little, if any, additional paperwork would result from the enactment of S. 1608, as ordered reported.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS

On April 6, 2000 the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources requested legislative reports from the Department of the Interior, the Department of Agriculture, and the Office of Management and Budget setting forth Executive agency recommendations on S. 1608. These reports had not been received at the time the report on S. 1608 was filed. When the reports become available, the Chairman will request that they be printed in the Congressional Record for the advice of the Senate. The testimony provided by the Forest Service at the Subcommittee hearing follows:

STATEMENT OF JAMES R. LYONS, UNDER SECRETARY, NATURAL RESOURCES AND ENVIRONMENT, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Thank you for your invitation to testify on S. 1608, "Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act of 1999." I appreciate the opportunity to join you today to continue the discussion that the Administration began last year on the need to provide a stable, permanent level of payments to states for schools and roads.

The Administration strongly believes: (1) We need to provide a permanent, stable payment at a higher level than what is provided by current law; (2) The payments need to be separated from fluctuating and often controversial timber sales; and (3) We need to strengthen the connection between communities and the land and water that sustains them.

The lessons of the past decade demonstrate that tying payments to states for essential services, such as schools and roads, to forest receipts simply does not work. Between 1989 and 1998, payments have declined by 36%. The decrease would have been even more dramatic if Congress had not provided a safety net for counties covered by the Northwest Forest Plan.

We need to find ways to finance our children's education, as we ensure that forests are managed to maintain their health, productivity, and diversity. Linking education to timber harvest objectives, however, sacrifices critical social objectives for other essential ecological objectives. Given our national wealth and our abundant national resources, we do not need to make such choices. Our objective should be to work together to reconnect rural communities to the lands that sustain them—not to set in motion new controversies and lawsuits.

With some modifications the Administration generally could accept the funding mechanism in S. 1608 as long as Congress works with the Administration to identify mutually acceptable offsets for the approximately $200 million more needed per year.

However, the Administration strongly opposes the resource investment section (section 6) of S. 1608. This section is objectionable for the following reasons:

(1) Section 6 continues to link 50 percent of the receipts from timber sales and other revenue generating projects to schools and roads. While the funding mechanism in the bill attempts to decouple these payments from schools and roads, the proposed revolving fund re-couples payments to revenue generating projects, primarily timber sales.

(2) Section 6 requires that the remaining 50 percent of the receipts from timber sales or other revenue generating projects go back to restoration projects, thus potentially continuing the downward spiral of harvesting valuable trees, the kind of trees that managers want left standing, to pay for watershed health.

(3) Section 6 places an unreasonable burden on the Forest Service by creating expectations that the counties can hold the agency financially responsible for failing to complete a project or for project delays in timing and outputs which are often caused by factors outside of the agency's control.

(4) Section 6 could undermine the credibility of the agency's National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) process. Making agencies financially liable for the cost of environmental analysis if the analysis does not allow for project approval creates pressure on local managers to approve projects to avoid losing funding. The public's perception may be that the agency is approving projects regardless of environmental impacts.

The Department stands ready to work with the Committee to fix these problems.

Background

The Administration's over-arching reason for proposing legislation for the last two years in its budget submission to address payments to states is the need to provide a stable, predictable payment that counties can depend on to help fund their education and road maintenance needs. Under the current statutory provision, commonly known as the twenty-five percent fund, the Federal government pays twenty-five percent of most Forest Service receipts to the states for distribution to the counties in which National Forest lands are located for financing public roads and schools.

The Administration's proposal would:

- (1) provide a stable, predictable payment that counties can depend on to help fund education and maintenance of roads,
- (2) provide increased payments above the payments projected under current law to compensate states for National Forest land that are not available to the local tax base,
- (3) provide a mandatory, permanent payment not subject to the annual appropriation process, and
- (4) sever the connection between timber sales and critically important education and road maintenance needs.

Historically, the primary source of National Forest receipts has been from the sale of timber on National Forests. Over the past 10 years, timber harvest from National Forests has responded to new scientific information, changing social values, and our evolving understanding of how to manage sustainable ecosystems. As a result during that same period payments to states have fallen 36%, from $361 million in 1989 to $228 million in 1998. That reduction in payments to states would have been far greater if not for an agreement between Congress and the Administration to stabilize payments for counties in western Oregon, Washington and northern California in 1993, the so-called owl county safety-net, the basis for the Administration's stabilization proposal.

Some counties and organizations have resisted separating payments from Forest Service receipts. In part, the resistance may stem from a belief that timber harvest levels will rise dramatically again in the future. But, with the need to do more forest stewardship sales and the corresponding shift to less profitable products being harvested, even if timber volume should increase, slightly, receipts from timber sales will likely continue to decrease.

Since fiscal year (FY) 1993 the proportion of harvest volume removed for timber commodity purposes has fallen from 71 to 52 percent, while the proportion being removed for forest stewardship purposes has grown from 23 to 40 percent. In FY 89, live trees, and large diameter trees, made up roughly 80 percent of the overall sales program; in FY 97, they represented only 60%.

In addition, in FY 99 and FY 00, the Administration's budget, which Congress accepted proposed timber offers levels below 4 billion board feet. We believe that the public will not accept the agency will not recommend, and science will not condone or justify a return of unsustainable timber harvest levels to the 11-12 billion board feet volume of the late 1980s.

We need to provide a reasonable payment to compensate states for the lands that are not available to the local tax base. Payments made through the payments in lieu of taxes (PILT) are often not appropriated to their fully authorized levels, creating difficulties for counties with a limited tax base due the presence of public lands. We need to ensure that states continue to benefit from both the intrinsic and economic values of public lands by guaranteeing a payment to make planning and budgeting predictable for counties. Thus, we believe we should provide a permanent, stable payment, based on historic levels, that is not subject to the annual appropriation process.

Specific concerns

Overall, while we support more collaboration with the public on land management issues, section 6 gives counties a direct financial interest in projects which we think is contrary to the spirit of our public land statutes.

Section 6 establishes a new program in which twenty-five percent of the full payment amount to counties or 25 percent fund payment, whichever is higher must be spent on resource investments on Bureau of Land Management or National Forest system lands. Resource investments are both commercial and noncommercial activities, involving resource management, stewardship, restoration, or development. In return, the counties and agencies each receive 50 percent of any funds generated by these projects. The counties' portion of receipts would then go to fund schools and roads and the agencies' portions would go toward funding watershed ecosystem restoration projects. The Secretary must agree to the project and obligate the fund by the end of the fiscal year or the counties would lose this 25 percent portion of their payment.

Since S. 1608 allows counties to receive 50 percent of net revenues from any eligible project, it is likely to encourage counties to propose controversial projects such as commodity timber sales that maximize revenues instead of proposing much needed restoration and maintenance projects. This could increase the dependency of rural school funding on forest receipts and ensure that payments to states will continue to be tied to controversial forest management issues. Once again, funding for children's education could become directly dependent on timber harvest or other revenue generating activities.

In addition, section 6 creates an unnecessary level of complexity and potentially could degrade agency credibility. If the agencies choose to use county funding to complete NEPA on resource investment projects and do not complete them because of findings from environmental analysis, lawsuits, or even natural events and disasters, then the Secretary may be required to reimburse the counties the funds provided for the project plus interest, pursuant to a memorandum of understanding. This process could undermine the NEPA process by creating the perception that the agencies would approve eligible projects regardless of the environmental findings. Conversely, the agencies could be forced not to agree to projects with any level of controversy to avoid reimbursing counties thereby angering communities.

Moreover, since the agencies receive 50 percent of the revenues from resource investment funded projects, this legislation will create the perception, and perhaps the reality, that projects will be approved just to increase agency funding.

In addition, if as intended, counties could hold the agencies financially responsible for delays in timing and harvest shortfalls, the bill would essentially create the perception that private interests have the right to develop public assets risk-free. This would only add to the contentious debate over forest management, and drive counties and agencies farther apart instead of bringing them together to improve conditions and relationships on their national forests.

We fully support strengthening the connection between rural communities and the public forests that surround them; but, the community-forest connection should promote both healthy forests and prosperous communities working from a model that brings people together through consensus building, avoiding unnecessary controversy.

Recommendations

We would like to work with the Subcommittee and the bill's primary sponsor, to develop less complex project procedures and more equitable project funding arrangements.

To address our concerns we believe the reinvestment program included in S. 1608 should be revised and recommend the following changes:

(1) Establish a pilot program for 3-5 years to allow a minimal number of counties to implement the investment project program. Consider establishing an advisory committee to monitor the success of this program and make recommendations to Congress on how it should be implemented or expanded.

(2) Require receipts generated from the investment projects to be deposited in the general treasury.

(3) Allow only restoration and maintenance projects to be funded through this bill. This will ensure that receipts for commercial timber sales will no longer go towards funding schools and roads and watershed health projects.

(4) Eliminate the provision that creates the expectation that agencies should be required to reimburse counties for project costs if projects are not completed or approved. Relationships between communities and agencies need to be based on mutual trust, not on a financial threat subject to circumstances outside of agency control or when objective environmental analysis dictates against a project going forward.

Closing

In 1908, the twenty-five percent fund worked well as an incentive to develop national forests and settle remote lands. Moreover, we should not hold funding for schools and roads to the same standards of nearly a century ago. As demands on our National Forests have increased and timber harvest has declined, we need to provide a stable, permanent mechanism for making payments to states that do not depend on land management decisions.

Mr. Chairman, the Department supports the objectives of S. 1608, but we strongly oppose the bill for the reasons outlined above. Rather than continue the contentious debate over natural resource management of the National Forests, I hope you consider our recommendations to provide a permanent, predictable payment for schools and roads and to strengthen the connection between communities and their public forests. We would be pleased to work with the Subcommittee to pursue options that might meet our respective goals.

This concludes my statement; I would be happy to answer any questions you and the Members of the Subcommittee might have.
